Q. A bill proposed in the North Carolina General Assembly would amend the state Constitution by changing the definition of eminent domain from the taking of private property for quote "public use and benefit" to the more restrictive quote "public use." The goal of this change is to limit the government's use of eminent domain to strictly public use such as building highways or schools, and stop the government practice of seizing property from one private owner only to ultimately give it to another private owner. Do you favor or oppose this bill?

Q. U.S. Presidents are elected by the Electoral College, a Constitutional process designed to balance the competing interests of large and small states. Each state's allotment of electors equals the number of members of its Congressional delegation. Electors then cast their votes for whoever wins the popular vote in that state. Do you think we should keep the Electoral College for Presidential elections, or should we amend the Constitution and elect the candidate who receives the most votes nationally by popular vote?

Q. A bill proposed in the North Carolina General Assembly would enter North Carolina into an agreement with other states to elect the President by the national popular vote. If North Carolina entered the agreement we would agree to give our electoral votes to the candidate winning the most votes nationally, regardless of the voting outcome in North Carolina. Do you favor or oppose this bill?
